Of Controversial TFX Warplanes

Senate Checks Law Firm That Awarded Contracts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Investigations subcommittee is checking the relations of Undersecretary of Defense Roswell L. Gilpatric's former law firm which was awarded the controversial TFX warplane contract.

Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., disclosing a check in under way of past business and professional affiliations of everyone who participated in the contract award, said Wednesday both Gilpatric and Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth will be summoned for questioning.

Will Not Be Questioned

But he told reporters that Gilpatric, who will appear Thursday, will not be questioned on "this possible conflict of interest," but on an anonymous Pentagon statement released over the weekend criticizing the committee.

No date has been announced for Korth's appearance, but Mundt told reporters: "I didn't know when we started this (investigation), that he was so highly influential a citizen of Fort Worth, Tex., the city where General Dynamics would work on the TFX contract."

The subcommittee is attempting to determine whether the Boeing Co., of Seattle, Wash., rather than General Dynamics, should have received the $28-million award to begin work on the fighter-bomber that will be used by both the Air Force and Navy. The subcommittee has heard testimony that Boeing offered a better plane at less cost, a claim hotly disputed by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara who says Boeing's design would cost $1 billion more.

1,700 Planes

Eventually, 1,700 planes are to be built for an estimated $6.5 billion.

Before Mundt made his comments other sources had disclosed the subcommittee wanted to determine whether Gilpatric had any major role in awarding the contract to General Dynamics, and what work the New York law firm of Cravath, Swaine & Moore had done for General Dynamics.

Gilpatric, who spent 20 years with the firm, severed his connections with it to become deputy secretary of defense in 1961.

Maurice T. Moore, a member of the firm's board, said in New York on Wednesday that it had done work for both Boeing and General Dynamics, but not on defense matters. Gilpatric, he said, was involved in some of this work.

With Dangerous Side Effects

FDA Drug Expert Overruled On Sales

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Food and Drug Administration has permitted sale of new drugs "imminently hazardous to the public health" and left them on the market months after they showed signs of dangerous side effects, an FDA medical officer said Wednesday.

In doing this, Dr. John O. Nestor said, his superiors overruled expert medical opinion.

Nestor, an expert in the FDA New Drug Division, and specializing in children's diseases said any opinion which challenged past FDA policies or commitments to the pharmaceutical industry encountered "indifference, disapproval, or even hostility, frequently so when they dealt with drugs for pediatric use."

The Welfare Department said neither it nor FDA would have any immediate comment on Nestor's testimony before a Senate Government Operations subcommittee investigating safety procedures for drug marketing.

"Any doubt about a drug must be resolved in favor of the user, not the producer," said Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, a medical doctor also.

Gruening said that if even part of Nestor's testimony was correct "it is a shocking indictment of the Food and Drug Administration."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., subcommittee chairman and a pharmacist, said Nestor's story was "shocking and most distressing" and FDA officials would be called to comment on it.

Nestor, whose job is to evaluate new drug applications, said shortly after he joined FDA two years ago he reviewed a new drug cleared a few months earlier for pediatric use.

Slow business in one area was canceled out by good business elsewhere.

But don't expect a loud "hurrah" from the C. W. Lumsdens of Florida, not after what happened to their orange groves.

And don't count on a loud cheer from California ski resorts, so short of snow for weeks that one official said they should be declared a "sunshine disastrous area."

And don't expect Dad to be pleased that his higher fuel bills helped boost petroleum industry earnings, that his pharmacy bills helped explain near-record drug sales, or that his garage tab helped set new marks in sales of car batteries and snow tires.

He and others questioned in a coast-to-coast Associated Press survey didn't recall the winter of 1962-63 in terms of general means and averages and indices. They recalled what it did to their own personal pocketbooks and livelihoods, for better or worse.

That's why many people will remember it as the weird winter that went one place it shouldn't—Florida—and didn't go another place it should—the Western mountains.

Florida's citrus growers tell tales of mid-December 1962, when every old tree in sight was burned to chase the cold, when ice picked and chose among trees to kill, when men had to gamble whether to pick fruit immediately for canning or hope it would recover and bring higher prices later.

It was an anxious time for those growers who, unlike the many others with wider financial interests, depend on the groves for a living. Winter freezes hit crops elsewhere—causing some $7.9 million damage to California's Imperial Valley, about $3 million damage to Texas' Lower Rio Grande Valley. In both areas, however, higher prices for surviving crops canceled out losses for most farmers.

The freezes also helped wipe out surpluses held by food processors—and their earnings improved.

Ski resort owners felt the winter too, in varied ways.

New Hampshire resort owners said, "We never had it so good." In the Rockies, operators were talking red ink until about Christmas—but then snow came and saved the season. In California, they're still talking red ink, and doing bookwork with it.

Midwestern fuel oil companies weren't bothered by the mild weather, however.

It was so cold in Minneapolis some days the deliverymen had to heat home fuel to make sure it would be thin enough to run.

With 21 straight days of zero or colder weather in Minneapolis, fuel shortages sometimes were a threat.

The winter's extreme cold was not, however, accompanied by general paralyzing ice and snow. People weren't afraid to go shopping.

A Boston department store said sales of ski togs were the best ever.

Cuba Is Example Of Reds' Failure To Provide For Citizens, JFK Says

Progress Alliance Is 'New Deal'

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)—President Kennedy told an enthusiastic crowd of university students Wednesday that Cuba is an example of communism's failure to provide for its people. He held up the $20-billion Alliance for Progress as Latin America's New Deal.

"The myth of the 1950s," he said, the claim that communism could build a better system, has collapsed. "It is our adversaries who must build walls to contain their people."

The cheering crowd then gave him a wildly enthusiastic sendoff, flapping barriers, sweeping guards aside and escorting him to the side of his Marine Corps helicopter.

The throng pressed close as the helicopter's huge blades began turning to lift Kennedy to the airport and his residential plane. The farewell matched the exuberance of the greeting he received on arrival Monday from some 200,000 Costa Ricans.

The six presidents bade Kennedy a more decorous goodbye before he left at 6:32 p.m. for Andrews Air Force Base, outside Washington.

Winding up his three-day solidarity meeting with presidents of six Central American republics, Kennedy told students and townspeople at the University of Costa Rica they share in the task of proving that men can protect freedom and conquer want and ignorance.

Reviving a quotation by Franklin D. Roosevelt, he said: "I can say here to you: This generation of Americans—your generation of Americans—has a rendezvous with destiny."

An estimated 10,000 people, about half of them students, stood quietly as the President spoke.

Berlin Issue Is Up Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union has passed the terse word that it is ready to resume exploratory talks on Berlin in the near future.

The talks have been in suspension for nearly a year.

There was no hint as to whether the Russians have any new ideas on how to solve the Berlin problem. Nor were there any suggestions as to when or where the talks might be resumed.

Word that the Russians are ready came from the Soviet Foreign Ministry when V.S. Semenov, a deputy minister and a veteran in German affairs, called in John M. McSweeney, minister-counselor of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow, on Tuesday. He told McSweeney that Moscow would be agreeable to starting the U.S.-Soviet dialogue again.

U.S. officials in confirming this new development stressed that Semenov did not go beyond informing McSweeney about his government's readiness to start talking again. The Russian made no suggestions on who should do the talking.

Russians First Move

The Russians made the first move at the end of January when they proposed to Foy D. Kohler, U.S. ambassador to Moscow who was about to return home for consultations, that the talks, stalled since spring 1962, should be resumed.

After a round of conferences with the Allies the United States agreed and Kohler reported this to Andrei A. Gromyko, the Soviet foreign minister, after he returned to Moscow on Feb. 25.

Gromyko noted the U.S. consent with such indifference that it puzzled the administration's specialists who had assumed that when the Kremlin made its first proposal it wanted to sit down at the conference table as soon as possible.

This assumption was obviously wrong, since it took Moscow another three weeks to renew the issue and make the third move Tuesday. The State Department's experts had no explanation for this foot-dragging.

Washington immediately consulted with the Allies on Moscow's new invitation.

Wayne County Farm Report

HONESDALE, Pa. (AP)—James E. McKeehen, state farm agent for Wayne County, reported Wednesday that from July 1 of last year to March 15 dairy farmers in the county spent $1.25 million for hay, corn and bulks because of a shortage caused by last summer's drought.

Under normal conditions Wayne County produces about 115,000 tons of hay and feed valued at $3.25 million. It was estimated only about 46,000 tons were produced last year.

Chain Store Removes Their Canned Tuna From Shelves

NEW YORK (AP)—The A&P food chain cleared the shelves in its 4,400 supermarkets Wednesday of all canned tuna bearing its own label. A tin of the fish was blamed in the suspected poisoning death of two Detroit housewives.

Yetter Pushes Spotlighting Ban Bill

REP. Van D. Yetter, Jr., Monroe County Democrat, is among four state representatives who this week introduced a bill banning spotlighting of deer between midnight and sunrise.

It is designed to curb illegal spotlighting of deer which is now banned only if there is a gun in the car. The measure also makes it illegal to throw light on a building or highway in the search for big game.

Cosponsors of the measure are Rep. Russell Eshback, Pike County Republican; Rep. John Laudadio, Westmoreland County Democrat; and Rep. Ray Goodrich, Potter County Republican.

Laudadio is president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs and Goodrich is chairman of the House game conservation committee.

Lenten Meditation

Rev. Norman E. Savage
First Baptist Church
East Stroudsburg

"Our Redemption"

DURING the Lenten Season people think more seriously about religious things. This is a time to impress upon our minds the great truths of our salvation. Man must always distinguish between the thoughts of men and the truth of God because man's ideas are not always consistent with the "Counsel of God." Let us then resort to the authoritative source of spiritual guidance, the inspired Word of God.

First, let us remember—God hath set forth His Son as "the propitiation (that is satisfaction) for our sins, and not for ours only but for the sins of the whole world."—John 2:2. "Neither is there salvation in any other, for there is no other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved."—Acts 4:12.

Second, the work of redemption is an accomplished fact.

"This man when He had offered one sacrifice for sins forever, sat down on the right hand of God."—Heb. 10:12. His work is perfectly effective to God and eternally effective for us, the proof of this is seen in the fact of His Resurrection. There are no other grounds for reconciliation with God.

Third, the results of His accomplishments are made available to every truly repentant and confessing believer.

"Through this man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins, and by Him all that believe (believe in the New Testament in which involves consent of mind and commitment of life) are justified from all things."—Acts 13:38-39.

"Therefore being justified by faith we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ."—Romans 5:1.

Salvation then is God's gift, it is Christ's provision for us. It is something obtained by faith and not attained by personal fitness or human effort. Peter says "We have obtained like precious faith."

—II Peter 1:1. Paul writes, "it is the Gift of God, not of works lest any man should boast."—Ephesians 2:8-9.

Trusting Him, I need no other. I have peace for this day and a bright and certain hope for tomorrow. Having all this my motto must be Sempre Fidelis, always faithful. I wish to be entirely, even as I am eternally His.

"Love so amazing, so divine Demands my life, my soul, my all."

Nevertheless, housewives were urged to check their pantries for A&P brand tuna, and in New York the health authorities suggested all such tins be returned to A&P markets for refunds. The food chain pledged its full cooperation.

Consumers were warned to be especially alert for 6½-ounce cans bearing the A&P label and the coded lid markings "WY3Y2" and "18X." This type of can, retrieved empty from a garbage can, was believed involved in the Detroit deaths.

Margaret McCarthy, 39, died in Detroit on Tuesday, three days after her neighbor, Collette Brown, 37. The women shared a snack of canned tuna late last week, then developed symptoms resembling type E botulism.

Botulism is described in medical dictionaries as food poisoning due to the production of toxins in improperly canned food, characterized by the abrupt onset of violent symptoms, often fatal. Type E designates a poison originating in fish products that attacks the nervous system.

Washington health officials said the last known occurrence of botulism as a result of canned foods in this country occurred in the mid-1920s and originated with canned olives.

The tuna shipment believed tainted came to Detroit from the Washington Packing Co. of San Francisco, which packed 5,760 tins in a lot of 120 cases under the A&P label. Federal and California health authorities had no fault to find with the firm's canning process.

A California public health official said the A&P tuna was cooked for 7 minutes at 242 degrees during the packing process last Jan. 8. This was described as over and above the 5 minutes and 240 degrees required by state regulations.

Soviet, U.S. Plan Satellite

ROME (AP)—U.S. and Soviet scientists signed an accord Wednesday for a joint weather satellite program, then called for broader American-Russian cooperation to include probes to other planets.

They also agreed on the launching of the U.S. Echo II satellite for joint communications tests. The agreements were reached in 10 days of negotiations here.

Both agreements were reached under a space cooperation accord signed by the two countries last June. They were announced at a joint news conference by Hugh L. Dryden of the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and Anatoly A. Blagomirnov of the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

Dryden and Blagomirnov led the teams of negotiators.

Under the weather satellite program each country will launch a satellite on a different orbit to take cloud and other weather pictures and collect meteorological data. Each country will launch as many satellites as necessary to keep the program going on a more or less permanent basis.

A 24-hour cable and radio communications network will be established between the two countries for the exchange of weather information and pictures.

Today And Tomorrow

In this day and age, when man is on the threshold of discovering the secrets of space, when scientific achievement is steadily forging ahead, and when an adequate information and knowledge in this field is almost a necessity for the individual, it is well to take a good look at the situation in our own backyards.

Today and tomorrow, the annual Monroe County Science Fair at the armory in East Stroudsburg will be open to the public. For a number of years now, this event has been nurtured by the sponsoring organizations and the science teachers, to insure a firm foundation for the future of our youth, our nation, and the world.

The exhibits at the Science Fair are sort of a window through which we may examine the results accomplished. The work done by the students in the various schools of the county will be on display, and it will be well worth the effort of every area resident to stop in and go through the exhibits. They will amaze the average visitor by their scope and completeness.

These are the products of today that will affect the future tomorrow. These are the background of the training of our youth. These are the forerunners of the minds that will be further developed into the thinking and accomplishments of the leaders of tomorrow.

The mad scramble for knowledge has opened untold fields for the future. How this knowledge is used will be the destiny of generations to come. If it is used wisely and well, the world will be a better place in which to live.

A good look at the Science Fair will do much to make people realize that the average youth of today is just as good and progressive as the youth of any generation; he has a wider field of knowledge and an even wider scope of things to come. His plans and dreams are just as idealistic and altruistic as his forebears.

A good look at the Science Fair will give you faith in the future, and renew your faith in the youth of today. The interest, knowledge and initiative of these young people of today augurs well for tomorrow.

The Allen-Scott Report

DeGaulle Pushes For Independent N-Power

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington, March 21 — President de Gaulle is forcefully demonstrating he means business in making France an independent nuclear striking power. U.S. Naval authorities have learned that De Gaulle, completely ignoring President Kennedy's strenuous efforts to create a multilateral nuclear force, has ordered that construction of France's first atomic-powered, missile-firing submarine get underway by this fall — approximately one year ahead of schedule.

Also that two more of these submarines be built; one to be laid down in 1964, the other in 1965. All three are to be operational by 1968 — two years in advance of original plans.

They will be armed with the SA-2, a Polaris-type missile with a range of 2,000 miles. Topaze, a prototype of the solid-fuel SA-2, was successfully tested in the Sahara last month. On the basis of these trials, some French missile experts are optimistically claiming the SA-2 will be operational by 1966. U.S. experts discount this. The Polaris now has a range of 1,500 miles. An improved version with a range of 2,400 miles is undergoing tests.

The French subs will be 130 meters long and weigh 7,000 tons — about the same size as the George Washington, this country's largest Polaris submarine.

In two important respects the French craft will be superior to the Washington. They are to operate at 20 to 25 knots at a depth of 300 meters. That is beyond the capability of the Washington.

If the French subs can do this, they will be difficult to detect with existing devices.

Like the Polaris subs, the French will be armed with 16 missiles that can be fired underwater. They will have crews of 135, and be able to cruise submerged up to 90 days.

In line with this speeded-up nuclear submarine program, De Gaulle also is accelerating construction of the Pierrelatte plant for production of the enriched uranium needed for missiles and warheads. This vital facility is to be completed by 1968.

These highly significant backstage developments are further impressive evidence of De Gaulle's inflexible determination to create a well-rounded nuclear striking force.

It will be considerably smaller than that of the U.S. and Russia, but equal to Britain. Above all, it means that by 1970 France will be a major nuclear power.

By then France will have (1) a fleet of 150 long-range jet bombers, (2) 500-mile air-to-ground nuclear-armed missiles for these bombers, (3) several hundred intermediate range ballistic missiles, and (4) three nuclear-powered submarines with 48 Polaris-type missiles.

Even if De Gaulle isn't around by then, France's nuclear might will be — a Force de Frappe to be reckoned with.

More Native Pilots — President Ngo Dinh Diem is proposing a plan that he contends will eventually do away with U.S. casualties in the vicious war against Communists in this country.

He wants a greatly increased pilot training program in South Vietnam.

At present, Vietnamese pilots are trained in the U.S. Twelve are now undergoing such training. Diem is urging this training be shifted to South Vietnam and considerably increased so that within two years, at the most, all helicopters and fixed-wing planes will be piloted by Vietnamese.

That would definitely affect U.S. casualties. Of the 62 Americans killed, most were lost in aerial missions.

Diem's latest proposal is awaiting President Kennedy's consideration. He turned down a previous plan by Diem, supported by U.S. military authorities, to put American officers in command of South Vietnamese combat units.

This was urged following several operations in which Vietnamese forces failed to act aggressively because of poor leadership.

Also being sought by Diem is more artillery, automatic arms and additional technical and engineering personnel and equipment to speed up highway construction. Diem holds that more roads would be a decisive military factor, as this would strengthen the defenses of the strategic hamlets against Communist attack.

Under White House consideration is bringing General Paul Harkins, U.S. commander in South Vietnam, to Washington for consultation. A veteran of the famed Third Army, Harkins was assistant chief of staff to the late General George S. Patton.

Foreign Flashes — President Kennedy doesn't like the way Ambassador J. Kenneth Galbraith is using government cables to propagate his ideas of how to cope with unemployment. The former Harvard economist has been sending long cables all the way from New Delhi to the White House urging aides of the President to advocate increased public works to overcome unemployment. The President's solution for stimulating business is a multi-billion dollar tax cut.

Galbraith, author of the widely-selling "The Affluent Society," doesn't think much of that. So he has been bombarding the President's staff with cables about his own theories. Annoyed, the President ordered Galbraith to stop that.

A delegation of French Communist leaders is visiting Yugoslavia — the first time since that country broke with Moscow in 1948. This is another significant straw in the wind of the growing rapprochement between Khrushchev and Tito, despite Red China's violent denials against the latter. . . . The Arab League has called an economic conference in Amman in early April. . . . Indian officials have positive proof that the Red Chinese looted a historic Buddhist monastery at Tawang before withdrawing last month. The Communists stole a large golden image of Buddha, priceless carpets, brocades and other treasures.

Opinions Of Other Editors

The Name Is Smith

Maybe Governor Scranton should keep Secretary of Revenue Theodore B. Smith, Jr., after school and make him write his name on the blackboard a couple of million times.

Mr. Smith is the official who is so fascinated with his name that he has thrown the Bureau of Motor Vehicles into confusion and caused annoyance to millions of auto owners and drivers waiting for their 1963 licenses.

When the new Secretary arrived at Harrisburg in mid-January, he found that his predecessor's name, Charles A. Dougherty, had been imprinted on the operators' license cards and vehicle registration applications awaiting processing. Dougherty, a Democrat, was still Revenue Secretary when the printing order was filled last fall.

The licenses would be just as valid, of course, with the old name as the new one. But what is the use of being Secretary of Revenue unless your signature is affixed seven or eight million times to automobile licenses? Theodore B. Smith thought so, anyhow, and, as a result, his name in all its glory had to be over-stamped on every one of those cards, casting Charles A. Dougherty into oblivion and exalting the name of Smith.

So you may have a long wait for your license but, at least, you know who is Secretary of Revenue. It is not Charlie Dougherty.

The Pennsylvania Story

Simpering Public Officials

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg—Simpering public officials are an affliction of almost any political society—and Pennsylvania's Capitol Hill most certainly is no exception!

The executive branch usually is the most heavily loaded with these IQ-70 underheads, but a few of these simpering knaves are also found in the legislative branch.

At the moment there are few such ignoramuses being heard from in the executive branch headed by the Republican Scranton Administration—due for the most part to the fact that the administration is completely new in office and as yet has not had the opportunity to get its feet firmly on the ground.

The legislative branch though has its perennial few—and this 1963 session is no exception.

This select band of simpering whippersnappers among the public officials of the Commonwealth comprises those who invariably rise in their frothy political wrath to charge that almost anything said in print is "wrong"—if not presented in exactly the format and context they desire or feel it should be presented.

For example, in a recent legislative session this column quoted a lawmaker as saying in a floor speech that he would be against a certain piece of legislation—the incident merely being used at the time to underscore the voting characteristics of that particular legislative bloc.

Next thing we knew when lawmakers returned to Capitol Hill the following week we were accosted by the lawmaker in question who came up whining with: "Hey—what's the idea in not giving my reasons for being against the legislation as I gave it in my speech?"

In some irritation we let our legislative friend know that (1) the speech and explanation had nothing to do with the fact with which we were concerned; (2) that it would take nearly two-thirds of a newspaper page; (3) newspaper "gist" items—not report verbatim which would require a two-foot thick newspaper.

"You're prejudiced!" was the IQ-70 retort.

More recently though during the current legislative session, a crotchety former member of the House of Representatives in a letter to an upstate newspaper noted that the newspaper referred to House Bill 79—in standard newspaper "condensed"—as legislation to "divorce politics from horse racing" in Pennsylvania.

The elderly gent, who still feels called upon to hang around legislative halls, for some reason—although he is not longer a member of the Legislature—apparently felt called upon to "set the record straight" (straight that is, insofar as he was concerned).

Quoth the whining gent, who was booted out of office last fall, in a letter to the editor: "As the matter was presented in the House, a member of a school board, an elected county official, an elected city officer, if he held any stock in race track, or he bequeathed some stock, he would have to give it up—sell it, get rid of it—under the terms of HB 79—all of which is ridiculous."

The point is: this onetime feeder at the public trough apparently is under the fantastic misconception that elected officials are not politicians—when actually almost anyone who holds public office automatically falls in the loose and general category of politician! The point is that what this fugitive-from-the-voters said and the all-inclusive terminology of "divorce politics from horse racing" are identical—but it wasn't said the way he himself thought it should be said!

In any event, this is the terminology in which the bill is generally referred to around Capitol Hill—in fact the Harrisburg Patriot-News in its every-week "box-score" on status of bills refers to HB 79 as "divorce politics, horse racing."

Perhaps the gent thought he had a non-metropolitan upstate newspaper he could buffalo and bulldoze! Small wonder his own voters throw him out of office—a most proper consequence for simpering public officials!

Off The Record

Mrs. Frank Doyle, East Stroudsburg, RD, wrote The Daily Record the other day, noting she found a soda bottle with Burt Bros. inscribed. Mrs. Doyle wondered about the background of the establishment that started right after the Civil War.

Many folks called and informed us of pertinent facts. However, Jim Bunnell, East Stroudsburg's human encyclopedia, came up with the best resume of the firm which officially opened for business in 1868.

Here's Jim research: "Sixty years ago John Burt, one of the Burt Bros., was a neighbor of mine and lived at 45 Lackawanna Ave., East Stroudsburg. In the rear of his house, the bottling works stood and still stands (vacant) on North Kistler St.

"At that time breweries did not bottle beer, sold only in kegs and most every community of any size had a beer bottling works.

"They (Burt Bros.) also manufacture soft drinks which they called Crystal Spring soft drinks. There was a very fine spring in the rear of the bottling works which they used for their soft drinks.

"They had a railroad siding in front of their plant which was an extension of the siding that supplied Wyckoff's feed mill.

"Burt Bros. had a chute and trestles that would extend from the railroad car to their refrigerator inside the plant. This refrigerator would hold about two car-loads of beer in kegs and was surrounded by their ice house. In the winter time they received ice from the lake at Marshalls Creek.

Burt Bros. had a barn in the rear of their plant and had six horses. They were very fine horses. A large team that delivered their product around the two towns and two teams were kept busy delivering beer and soft drinks to Porters Lake, Dingmans Ferry, Mt. Pocono, Dingmans, Saylorsburg, Gilbert, etc.

A son, William Burt, lives on Prospect St., East Stroudsburg. The case of Burt Bros. is now closed.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Leg Cramps

Many of us have been awakened at one time or another from a deep, comfortable sleep by a sudden painful cramp in the muscles of the leg. If you have, then you know how distressing, even terrifying, these spasms can be. Although they may last for only a few minutes, when they recur frequently they are a source of great anxiety.

Painfully annoying, too, are the cramps that occur while you are awake. The Charley Horse, which plagues athletes, falls into this last category.

Cramps are caused by a narrowing or spasm of the arteries that bring nourishing blood and oxygen to the muscles of the legs. These causes are many and varied.

A Major Cause
In the elderly, arteriosclerosis is one of the major causes that impair the normal rapid flow of blood.

Another condition, a rather peculiar one, occurs in people whose parents come from mid-European countries. It is called "Buerger's Disease," named after the man who first described it.

This is a condition associated with a marked sensitivity to tobacco.

Simple Causes
There are many simple causes of leg cramps, too. Bed sheets too tightly bound down, tight garters that restrict the circulation of blood, even improperly-fitting shoes may be responsible for leg cramps.

In most instances, night cramps are more uncomfortable than serious. However, if they persist, the exact cause should be determined and removed.

DEAR ABBY:

These leg cramps cry for attention and refuse to be neglected.

Every conceivable suggestion has been made by solicitous members of the family when a painful spasm disturbs your night's sleep. They vary from sound medical truths to the most bizarre and far-fetched myths and superstitions.

"The leg is having a bad dream and wants to wake up" is a typical comment.

When a painful cramp wakes you, don't slap, kick or bruise that tender leg as somebody may suggest. It has troubles enough without that old wives' remedy.

Better, try to walk slowly or gently massage the leg. The spasm of the blood vessel responsible for the cramps will soon disappear. Generally, if you relax, the spasm will.

For Pain
If pain persists, warm, moist towels applied to the leg bring comfort and relief. Recently, quinine prescribed in special doses by doctors and taken at bedtime seems to prevent these recurrent spasms.

All leg cramps deserve attention. Drugs and controlled exercise can diminish the frequency and severity of the cramps. Most important, anxiety can be relieved by the reassurance that comes with a thorough medical check-up.

These columns are designed to relieve your fears about health through a better understanding of your mind and body. All the hopeful new advances in medicine reported here are known to doctors everywhere.

Your individual medical problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best.

Architects Unveil Preliminary Plans For Stroud Union Addition

PRELIMINARY plans for the new Stroud Union High School addition were unveiled at last night's meeting of the school board.

Rinker, Kiefer, and Rake, local architects, submitted tentative blueprints for the construction of a 450-student addition, a planetarium, an athletic field house, and new baseball, softball, tennis, and football playing areas.

No cost estimates were discussed at the meeting.

The 450-student seventh and eighth grade addition will be self-contained, and will be split level. The two-story portion of the building will house 12 large classrooms, three small classrooms and an art room.

The single story portion will contain an auxiliary gym, a cafeteria and kitchen, administrative offices, a music and TV room, and district administrators offices.

Planetary

The planetarium will be 33 feet in diameter, a modern structure, and will have public facilities so that it may be used after school and during the summer months. Total floor space for the building comes to 112,000 square feet.

The new addition and planetarium will be located on the present site of Gordon Giffels Field, behind the current high school. A small stream which runs through that area will be directed through an underground conduit to Pocono Creek.

The addition will be connected with the main high school by an uncovered walk and a covered walk. Students will not have to use the main building for anything except shop and library activities.

Four Tennis Courts

Four tennis courts are slated to be put into the playground area east of the high school.

Covered bus loading areas will surround the north and east sides of the addition.

West of the addition, where land was recently purchased from J. H. Beers, a new baseball and football field will be installed, plus a field house.

The field house will be used by both teams in a contest, and will contain locker rooms, athletic equipment drying rooms, showers, coaches and officials rooms, and storage space.

Each segment of the two-part field house will hold 48 athletes. A small side building, not connected with the field house, will be used for maintenance equipment storage.

Between the two buildings will be a ticket selling and entrance area that will contain four ticket booths.

Some modernization will also be made on the existing structure of the high school. Plans are being made for widening the stage in the auditorium, doing some ventilating work and acoustically repainting the auditorium, as well as extending the physics and chemistry laboratories on the second floor.

A new boiler designed to heat the new addition will be added to the boiler room of the present structure.

Parking facilities will extend around and in between the proposed new areas, capable of handling a large influx of autos.

The blueprints submitted were preliminary—tentative at best—and approval was given Earl F. Groner, superintendent of the district, to take the plans to Harrisburg for state approval.

More Action Needed
The drawings will be checked against the approved room schedule and after approval or rejection will come back to the school board for action.

Rejection would be made if the plans did not meet classroom schedules set up by the state on the basis of population trends.

In other action, the board recommended that the unused portion of the money spent on Morey and Hamilton school improvements—a total of about $35,000—be given to the Stroudsburg Area School Authority to be put into the bond redemption fund. The money has to be used in the original contract or be put into such a fund.

After a letter from the Delaware Water Gap PTA asking if the district were planning to dispense Sabin Oral Polio Vaccine, a recommendation was made to get the opinion of the school physician as to the possibility of having free oral vaccine for the students of the district.

Teacher Resigns
The resignation of Miss Abbie Jane Frisbie as elementary music teacher was accepted, and the resignation of Charles Winters as assistant baseball coach was accepted. Miss Patricia Ann Ungemach will take over for Miss Frisbie at the beginning of the next school year at a salary of $4,000.

Next year's school calendar will have three in-service days, and the commencement will be on June 11.

A committee of the whole for budget of teachers salaries and non-professional salaries will be held next Wednesday at 8 p.m. A $1,500 senior scholarship was received from Robert Kintner, a former student who is now head of NBC Television.

On state reimbursement, Groner said that he was trying to find out figures in Harrisburg recently and the state education department was non-committal at present.

Mrs. Diane Shanley was added to the list of substitute teachers.

Talk On Life In Mexico Features Kiwanis Meeting

MISS Anita DePalma was the guest speaker at Kiwanis Club meeting in the Penn-Stroud Hotel. She spoke on the theme, "Social and Industrial Upheaval in Mexico." Miss DePalma, a singer and actress by profession, has studied international law at the University of Mexico.

Miss DePalma spoke particularly of Mexico City, its movie industry and American tourists in her country.

She noted that Mexico City was the sixth largest city in the world and told of the many historic spots in the city.

Miss DePalma noted that the movie industry in Mexico was second only to Hollywood.

In picturing the tourists she said Americans leave an unpleasant film. Miss DePalma said that most of the tourists came to the country with little or no knowledge of its customs. She also pointed out that their attitude toward the people of the country is not a healthy one.

Carl Meissner was the program chairman.

'Climate Of Education' Described To Phi

DR. AGATHA Townsend, fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and consultant to local schools' reading programs, spoke on the 'Climate of Education' before Phi chapters of Delta Kappa Gamma recently.

The local chapter of the international teachers' organization met at the Stroud Community House. Mrs. Frank Wagner, program chairman, introduced Dr. Townsend to the group.

Two members were initiated. They are Mrs. Nevin Nonnemacher, Arlington Heights Elementary School; and Anna C. Smith, teacher at Schoholia Elementary School, Shohola, Pike County.

Miss Katherine Wolverton was in charge of the initiation. The business meeting was conducted by Miss Mary E. Hall, vice president. Plans were made to attend the anniversary dinner of the Alpha Alpha chapter of Easton in Allentown on April 27.

Mrs. Elizabeth Shaller gave a review of a paper, "Education in Our Affluent Society," by Mary I. Bunting.

Retired teachers of Wayne, Pike, and Monroe Counties will be the guests of the group at the next meeting in May.

Skip the sulphur and molasses — get a CHEVROLET SUPER SPORT

Chevrolet Super Sports* have a charm that soothes your springtime yen for romantic adventure as fast as you can slip into a bucket seat. (Especially the Impala's, with its adjustable new Comfortilt steering wheel*) And the charm lasts all year round. Match that, old-time tonics! In fact, match that, anybody! Front bucket seats are a great start, but Super Sports also feature plush all-vinyl interiors, special interior-exterior trim in tasteful touches, and a veritable feast of goodies we call performance options*. A modest enough phrase to describe tailored-to-your-taste-action, from brisk to utterly overwhelming. Chevrolet and Chevy II Super Sports invite adventure in convertible or coupe form. Think that's all? You don't know Chevrolet! That same Super Sport zing applies to the Corvair Monza Spyder, very breezy with its air-cooled 150-horsepower rear-mounted engine, 4-speed shift* and an outlook made for green country lanes. Ditto for the new Corvette Sting Ray, a magnificent thoroughbred among pureblood sports cars with not a single sacrifice in comfort. Both Spyder and Sting Ray come in coupe or convertible styles. All Chevrolet Super Sports are like spring days—you've got to get out in them to savor them. So catch yourself a passing zephyr and waft on down to your Chevrolet showroom.

*Optional at extra cost.

Pike-Wayne Medical Group Plans Oral Vaccine Clinic

HONESDALE — Plans to immunize the more than 37,000 residents of Wayne and Pike Counties with Sabin oral polio vaccine will be discussed at a meeting at 7:45 p.m. today in the parish house of Grace Episcopal Church.

The program, planned by the Wayne-Pike Medical Association, is the largest such project in Northeastern Pennsylvania history, according to Dr. Emil T. Niesen of Honesdale, chairman of the association's immunization committee for Wayne County.

The project is expected to be completed at a series of three clinics, starting April 21. The Sabin immunization program consists of three pills, the second given about six weeks after the initial dose and the third next fall.

Physicians in the two counties will donate their services to staff a network of clinics to be established throughout the area. Volunteers to assist the physicians are now being recruited.

Dr. Niesen said there will be

Lancaster Educator To Speak Here

DR. O. H. Aurand, superintendent of schools in Lancaster, will be a guest speaker at the in-service program of East Stroudsburg Area Joint Schools Friday.

Aurand received his bachelor's degree from Susquehanna University, Selingsgrove, his master's and doctorate from Columbia University, New York City. He has selected, "Who Calls the Signals?" as his topic.

Dr. Aurand was supervising principal of Lehman School, Bernum School, and superintendent of the Steelton Schools. He was a professor of Education in Pennsylvania State University until he accepted the position of superintendent in Lancaster.

General Mills To Buy Duffy-Mott

NEW YORK (AP) — General Mills Inc. has arranged to buy Duffy-Mott Co. of New York City for stock valued at more than $27 million.

The two companies said yesterday the proposal must be approved by directors of both companies and by stockholders of Duffy-Mott. Duffy-Mott sells apple sauce, apple juice, prune juice and baby foods.

Whiting Awarded $1,500 In Libel Suit

SCRANTON—A Lackawanna County Common Pleas Court jury yesterday awarded Howell T. Whiting of Mt. Pocono $1,500 in a libel suit he brought against the Scranton Times.

The suit was the result of an article in the first edition of the Times of April 5, 1961, in which the newspaper reported that Whiting had pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with the theft of government property from Tobyhanna Signal Corps Depot where he was employed as a foreman.

In his closing argument to the jury, Atty. Edwin Krawitz of Stroudsburg, representing Whiting, pointed out that in a subsequent issue of the paper, the Times did not admit its error in naming Whiting.

Krawitz, who was assisted by Paul H. Price and Kenneth Rhodes, Scranton attorneys, asked the jury for substantial damages because of the "grievous harm" suffered by his client as a result of the erroneous story.

Earlier, Joseph X. Flannery, a Times rewrite man, testified he did not realize until after the first edition was published that he had twisted Whiting's name with another defendant's.

"THE advertisement is one of the most interesting and difficult of modern literary forms." —Alfred Huxley.

Flannery called the story "a human error."

COMMERCIAL candle making in the United States was pioneered in 1855 in Syracuse, N. Y. by Anton Will, a German immigrant. The firm he founded now makes candles for the Vatican.

Foltz Named School Director

IRVING W. Foltz was named to fill the unexpired term of Theodore Henning, who recently resigned as a director on the East Stroudsburg School Board, by the board at its recent meeting.

Foltz is a former principal of the Junior High School and is a retired professor from East Stroudsburg State College.

Ex-Policeman Sentenced

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — President Judge T. Linus Hoban Wednesday sentenced former Scranton police Sgt. John P. Keiper to 23 months in the Lackawanna County jail for forgery and embezzlement of funds from the Pennsylvania Fraternal Order of Police.

However, Judge Hoban said he would entertain a motion for parole if the former police official can work out a program for restitution of some $10,000 to the FOB which is satisfactory to both the court and the police organization.

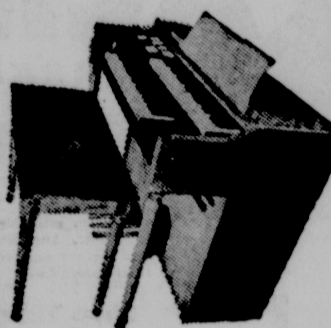

Keiper, 48, was sentenced on two counts, one of forgery and the other of embezzlement. He received the 23 month sentence in each case, with the term to run concurrently.

N'fld Area Rotarians Elect Aides

NEWFOUNDLAND — Rotarians, electing officers for the 1963-64 term during the meeting this week at Green's Restaurant, chose these men to serve for the coming year: Tom Gangwere, Green-town, president, succeeding Willis Gilpin; Robert Baughan, South Sterling, vice president; the Rev. Larry T. Lindenmuth, Newfoundland, secretary; C. Allen Edwards, South Sterling, treasurer, Willis Gilpin and Albert Eckardt are the new directors. All will take office in July.

District Governor George "Dusty" Rhodes was a guest at the meeting at which Cmdr. John Calhoun, USN (Ret.) spoke on "Diplomacy and the U.S. Service Officer."

On Monday night, the Rotary Club will welcome Adolph Caprioli, of Canadensis, and his debating team from Pocono Mountain Joint School, Swiftwater, District 7 debating champions who will compete next month for the State title. Their debate will concern "The West and the European Economic Community, or the Common Market."

Robert Baughan was program chairman for March. Marvin Woltjen will be program chairman for April.

Area Doctor Practicing In Bethlehem

DR. THOMAS L. WILLIAMS, a specialist in Psychiatry, opened his office this week at 1306 W. Market St., Bethlehem.

The doctor is a native of Mt. Carmel, graduating from its school in 1943. Following three years active duty as a flying officer during World War II, he attended the University of Pittsburgh. He received his B.S. Degree there and then his M.D. Degree in 1962.

Upon completion of a Rotating Internship at Allegheny General Hospital in 1963, Dr. Williams entered the Practice of General Medicine at Gilbert, where he remained six years and was on the staff of the Monroe County General Hospital, E. Stroudsburg, Pa.

He then trained in Psychiatry and Neurology in the State of Iowa at its Cherokee Mental Health Institute, affiliated with the University of Iowa. Completing the three year course, he remained on its staff as Chief of Service of the Acute Intensive Treatment Department and later as Director of Education and Training. The latter position he resigned to open his office in Bethlehem.

Dr. Williams and his family will reside also at 1306 W. Market St., Bethlehem. He is a member of the Northampton County Medical Society, The A.M.A., the A.P.A., and on the Staff of St. Luke's Hospital.

Non-Pro Artists To Exhibit

PAINTINGS by nonprofessional artists living in this area will be on display at Eastern Light, 520 Hamilton St., Allentown, starting Monday, March 25.

Eastern Light has set up a special exhibit area for paintings from area artists until Saturday, April 6, to serve as a gallery site for their original paintings.

Three paintings will be selected at this exhibit for qualification in Motorola's Fifth Annual National Exhibition by Professor Johannes Gaertner, chairman of fine arts department, Lafayette College; Mrs. Antonio Guerrero, Pennsylvania Division, Art Chairman, American Association of University Women, and Hugh Moore, Jr., member of American Institute of Architects, all of Easton.

Prizes Slated For Homes Event

SEVERAL big prizes will be given away to the visitors of the Parade of Homes, April 20-21 and 27-28. It was decided by the Monroe County Master Builders and Contractors Association at their monthly meeting Tuesday night.

The meeting was held at the Cherry Valley Inn, Delaware Water Gap. A trip to the Armstrong Linoleum Co. was planned for members and their wives on April 3. Lou Manzie presided at the meeting.

Miss Cramer Is Pledged

JUDITH Cramer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Cramer, Moon Valley Road, Milford, has recently been pledged to Gamma Omicron chapter of Alpha Delta Pi sorority at Susquehanna University, Selingsgrove, Pa.

She is a freshman there in the liberal arts curriculum, and is active in the Student Christian Association.

THE Philippines now has a population of 27,500,000, an increase of more than 9,000,000 since the end of the war.

Premier Appointed

BENGHAZI, Libya (AP)—Dr. Muhiiddin Fikini was appointed premier of Libya by King Idris yesterday.

Fikini is a former ambassador to the United States.

CHARLES A. Lindbergh refused to take his mascot, a pet kitten named "Patsy," on his pioneering transatlantic flight in 1927 because he felt it would be "too dangerous a journey to risk the cat's life."

National Farm Group Asks More Aid To Agriculture

By OVID MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Farmers Union, ignoring attacks on federal farm aid programs, called yesterday for broader use of government payments to assure the nation's farmers fair prices.

The farm organization's convention approved a policy statement which urged so-called "Brannan-type" payments to supplement market returns from commodities produced under government controls.

Broad use of such payments was a feature of a controversial farm plan advanced in 1949 by Charles F. Brannan, then secretary of agriculture in the Harry S. Truman administration and now general counsel of the Farmers Union.

Program Under Attack

The convention's plea for stronger federal aid to agriculture was made at a time when farm programs are under sharp attack in and out of Congress and among farmers themselves. The rival American Farm Bureau Federation is urging gradual withdrawal of the programs.

The Brannan plan was never accepted by Congress, although limited use of payments has been made from time to time since then to help boost farm income and to compensate farmers for idling a part of their land from surplus crops.

Tuesday's resolution called for what it called "farm income-improvement payments" on commodities subject to production controls when market prices fall below a predetermined fair price. The payment would make up the difference between the market and the fair-price goal.

Twin Program Cited

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman said in a talk prepared for the night session that the Kennedy administration seeks to "restore prosperity to rural America" through what he called a twin program.

One, he said, is use of commodity price support and production adjustment programs. The other is use of measures designed to help develop new opportunities

Senate Passes, Advances Bills

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Senate passed two bills and advanced 24 others Wednesday before adjourning until next Monday.

Only 13 senators were on the floor as the Senate whipped through its work in 13 minutes. However, the two bills were passed with the votes of all 50 senators recorded by agreement between the party leaders.

The session was held primarily to advance for a final vote next week the 24 bills released from committees Tuesday.

Passed 50-0 was a bill to delay the effectiveness of regulations adopted by state agencies until they are printed and made public. It went to the House.

The chamber also passed 27-16, on straight party lines, a technical bill to go along with the previously approved state Board of Education bill.

Only one new bill was introduced. It would make youths 16 years and older subject to the punitive provisions of the anti-drag racing law, instead of have them handled by juvenile authorities. Sponsors were Sens. Jack E. McGregor and Robert Fleming, Allegheny Republicans.

Flags Stymie Fleet

MOSCOW (AP)—A new Soviet fishing trawler fleet was stranded in the Black Sea port of Nikolaev. The government paper Izvestia said the ships could not shove off because somebody had forgot to order flags for them.

The Rockefeller Foundation appropriated $3,200,000 for fellowships and scholarships during 1962.

Rice, the staple of the Asian diet, is the principal daily food for more of the world's peoples than any other food crop.

Births Exceed Deaths In County

THE number of people who were born in Monroe County during the past decade far exceeded the number who died, according to a special Government report, recently released.

The ratio of births to deaths was 1.8 to 1.

The official tabulation shows a total of 7,434 births locally during the period as against 4,051 deaths. Not included in these figures are births and deaths of non-residents that occurred within the county.

The report, issued by the Department of Commerce, is based on data compiled by the U.S. Public Health Service.

Despite the fact that there has been a decline in the birth rate in recent years in most parts of the nation, the rate in Monroe County has remained relatively high.

The annual average locally, over the 10-year period, was 20.2 births per 1,000 population.

For a number of years after World War 2, there was a rapid increase in the number of births in the United States. Larger families were the thing.

Smaller Families
More recently, there has been a change in attitude. It appears that many couples have decided to have smaller families than they had originally planned.

Various factors and influences had a part in that decision, according to sociologists who have commented on it.

One of these is the high cost of sending children to college. The financial burden involved in making such provisions for more than one or two children has led to second thoughts in a large number of families.

Other influencing factors include the growth of unemployment in recent years and the fear that East-West tensions might lead to war.

Added to these, it is pointed out, is the increasing popularity of apartment living. The shift from houses to apartments tends to put a limitation on the size of families.

How much of a change has occurred in the birth rate in Monroe County is indicated by the Government's figures. They show that the local rate was 17.3 births per 1,000 population back in 1950, whereas, in the succeeding 10 years, it averaged 20.2 per 1,000. Nationally, despite a falling birth rate, the population continues to rise. It is expected to reach 208 million by 1970.

Witnesses Gain Space For Parley

"THAT the growing number of Jehovah's Witnesses might have sufficient room for all departments to assemble, they will again use the Agricultural Hall at the Fair Grounds, Allentown, for their three-day convention April 12-14," said Mr. Stephen Bortlik, president of the East Stroudsburg congregation.

Commenting further on gatherings of this kind, Mr. Bortlik stated, "Although many people gather together, it is seldom to consult God's word or take heed to its counsel. Gatherings of a political or scientific nature have resulted in a bleak outlook for mankind's future."

Speaking on the purpose of the meetings, he continued, "The unrest, national and international, which is shown in Bible prophecy, points to the need of the 'right kind of ministers' which will be the theme of the assembly. Ministers today must be able to teach God's purpose for mankind and point to the hope that his word holds out. Because of this need, regular assemblies are arranged for in 1,725 circuits throughout the world. One of these is Pennsylvania No. 2 which consists of 19 congregations in the Lehigh Valley."

Arrangements under the auspices of the Watchtower Bible & Tract Society, have been under way for some time. Mr. Joseph Sala, district supervisor of the Society will give the principal talk Sunday, April 14 at 3 p.m., "Who Will Win the Struggle for World Supremacy?"

All persons interested in Bible knowledge are welcome.

Historical Inn Moved 3/10 Mile

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — An 164-year-old inn was moved three-tenths of a mile yesterday to a new location. The Running Pump Inn, located four miles east of Lancaster on route 30, was to have been demolished to make room for a tourist attraction.

Joseph A. Myers, owner of a Lancaster restaurant, took up an offer of the tourist attraction builders to take the inn for free. He assumed the costs of moving the inn to a site across from his restaurant. He said he would use it as a residence for one of his children.

East Stroudsburg Teacher On Evaluatio Committee

THE Commission on Secondary Schools, Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania has requested Elston J. Arnt to serve on the Evaluation Committee of Kingston High School, Kingston, Pa. Arnt has been a teacher in the East Stroudsburg Area Joint Junior-Senior High School for the past 15 years.

The Kingston High School will be evaluated by a committee of school administrators and teachers from Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey on March 20, 21 and 22. There are about 20 members serving on an evaluating team. The building, administrators' offices, teachers, students, courses, programs of study, and extra curricular activities are examined and studied carefully during the three days and evenings that the evaluation is carried on.

All reports are submitted in writing to the chairman of the evaluation committee who then submits the entire report to the "Commission on Secondary Schools" in Philadelphia.

Arnt stated that he considers this to be a worthwhile educational experience and it will give him an opportunity to compare the East Stroudsburg School with the Kingston High School.

Arnt holds a B.S. degree and has also earned a master's degree from Lehigh University. He has taken additional work at Pennsylvania State University.

Belgian Minister Backs U.S. Pledge

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak says it's irresponsible to attack American pledges to defend Europe.

"Such an attitude (of doubt) brings the danger of a new isolationism (in the United States)," Spaak told the House of Representatives in Brussels yesterday.

Predict Ouster Of Ngo Diem

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) —Two exiles from South Viet Nam's armed forces predicted yesterday that President Ngo Dinh Diem, who is fighting a U.S.-backed war against Red Viet Cong guerrillas, will be ousted this year by their anti-Communist opposition movement.

"As long as Diem is in power, Viet Nam and America have no chance of winning against the Viet Cong," ex-Col. Nguyen Khanh Thi, 40, declared in an interview in Phnom Penh, Cambodia's capital. "Diem has no popularity with

He and ex-Lt. Nguyen Van Cu, 29, also a refugee in Cambodia, said their movement against the president, directed from Paris by Pham Huy Co, is gaining strength in Saigon.

PM Band's Progress To Be Noted

SWIFTWATER — The Spring Band Concert — Mar. 29 — by the Pocono Mountain Joint Junior-Senior High School band will give parents and local educators a progress report on musical development of the 80-member group. This was noted last night by Robert Lane, the director.

Lane said that the concert will also provide a chance for five top clarinetists to perform. Marjorie Schimer, 10th grade; Janice Gantzhorn, 9th grade; Rosemary Garris, 9th grade; Brenda Gravel, 8th grade; and Joan Munich, 8th grade, will take the center of the joint high school auditorium stage to play "Scherzo For Clarinet." Linda Paul, 10th grade, will accompany the girls on the piano.

In lieu of uniforms, which this event will help to buy, the band members will wear white shirts or blouses and dark trousers or skirts. The Pocono Mountain Band Boosters are sponsors of the concert and money from the concert will aid in swelling their treasury.

The band Boosters have more than $1,000 in the treasury from other fund raising events and donations from individuals and groups. They have approached the school board for aid in securing the necessary funds for the uniforms which will cost in excess of $5,000.

Tickets for the concert will be sold by band members and business establishments will be contacted to handle tickets as a public service. They will also be available at the door the night of the concert.

Young GOP Party Set Tomorrow

THE MONROE County Young Republican Club will hold a party at the Tannersville Inn, starting at 8:30 p.m. Friday.

The public is invited and there will be no admission. Free refreshments will be served and an orchestra will provide music for dancing.

Howard Robertson will be auctioneer for a sale at which numerous items will be offered.

A number of candidates for Monroe County offices are expected to attend.

Two Women Cited For Sales Work

MRS. Evelyn A. LaBar, Route 1, Mount Bethel, and Mrs. Marjorie M. Paul, Rural Delivery No. 5, Stroudsburg, were honored at a recent week-long sales convention sponsored by their company, Stanley Home Products, Inc., Westfield, Mass. The event took place at the Sheraton-Park Hotel in Washington, D.C.

Their sales records were highlighted at a special recognition banquet attended by 600 other Stanley dealers and managers from all over the United States, including Puerto Rico.

Miss Catherine L. O'Brien, Stanley's chairman of the Board, said, "The achievements of Evelyn and Marjorie are noteworthy; they have proven to themselves, as well as their managers, that success is measured by desire, interest, and ability to accept a challenge."

Lambert Cadets Plan Tag Days

THE Lambert Cadet Junior Drum and Bugle Corps of Thomas P. Lambert Post 250, VFW, Stroudsburg, will hold a tag day Friday and Saturday.

The entire corps will practice Saturday at 2 p.m. at the VFW Post.

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

There's one thing about having sun and shadow in a rather chilly preview of April: you can vary your mood, moment by moment.

In one of the more serious moments yesterday, I started pondering on the matter of sacrifice. The sacrifice which parents make for their own children, for instance, as compared to the sacrifice which the parents adopting Nancy May's orphans will be called upon to make.

Your own children, for whom you are responsible whether you choose to be or not, are an extension of yourself; their welfare, your satisfaction; their joy, a cause for your own rejoicing. But voluntarily to take on the responsibility of orphans, sickly and of mixed parentage, with all the added necessity for physical care, emotional acceptance, and intellectual understanding would take something special by way of parents, I should think.

This whole matter of sacrifice is a sensitive point with me, since somehow, my whole life long, the balance between giving and receiving has always been in my favor, so that I am continually in debt to my family, to my friends, to you.

Especially do I realize this on my birthday when it seems to me I should be the one to give gifts: for being born, for having been surrounded with love and material blessings, for work which is absorbing and rewarding in terms of appreciation and satisfaction.

No such humble meditation marked the beginning of this birthday. I'll have to admit. Working beyond the midnight, I started celebrating by getting stuck in the gritty snow, and slogging up the driveway with the sleet blowing in my face and my feet sinking in the soft mud under the snow, thinking bitterly: a fine way to start what seems like a second century and at my age, too.

At my age. Come to think of it, I doubt if I'd change it, parents still staunch enough to form a buffer against the world, children old enough to give you presents they don't have to borrow money from you to pay for, and all your friends conceding that you're too old to mend your ways now. Heh. Instead of feeling guilty, I guess I'll just feel humbly grateful and enjoy it while it lasts.

Rarick-Hineline Engagement

Miss Hineline is employed by Sommers Ribbon Co., East Stroudsburg. Her fiancé is in the United States Army, stationed in Hawaii. No date has been set for the wedding.

Ingathering Gifts From Cherry Valley

Cherry Lane — Many articles for the annual Ingathering were brought to the March meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Cherry Lane Methodist Church held at the home of Mrs. Frank Snyder. Several members are planning to attend the Ingathering service to be held in Allentown. Mrs. Jack Couderman presided at the meeting which opened with devotions led by Mrs. William Cron. Summer dates announced were: the annual bazaar, July 13, and the annual Peach Festival to be held Aug. 17.

The next meeting will be held April 3 at the home of Mrs. Theodore H. Sebring.

Rebekahs Anniversary Celebration

The 53rd anniversary of Rachel Brodhead Rebekah Lodge will be celebrated on Thursday, March 28 at 6 p.m.

A catered dinner will be served in the Fort Penn Lodge Rooms to members and guests. A special entertainment will be featured at the celebration.

Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Dorothy Heller, 421-1034.

Seoul To N. Y. Via Diapers For Escort To Orphans

A free trip across the Pacific? Miss Nancy May, daughter of Jonas May of Stroudsburg, earned it in one of the most unusual ways: serving as nursemaid to a jet full of babies, hanging diapers from Seoul, Korea, to New York City.

While the picture called up by a plane load of crying, wet babies is a humorous one, the experience itself was a heart-warming one with serious overtones of tragedy, of sacrifice, and of hope.

The babies, 15 of them, were Korean orphans, many of mixed parentage, concomitants of a cold war that has kept the armed forces of other countries in contested Korea. Although they ranged in age up to two years, they seemed much younger, Miss May said.

Malnutrition and shelter living have stunted their physical growth and retarded their activities, so that few of them could even sit up. Changing diapers was a constant routine during the 18 hours flying time for the six adults responsible for bringing them to their new home.

This is to be home for these babies, who with all the scales weighted against them have still been adopted by American parents. The adoptions were arranged through an adoption service which has placed 3,000 of such children.

Babies and their escorts were dropped off at various points across the country with three of them scheduled for New York

Miss Marilyn Sterner

Local Girl Named College Student-of-Week

Miss Marilyn Sterner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Sterner of Berwick Heights Road, East Stroudsburg, was named "Student of the Week" at The College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va., where she is a senior.

She was featured in the March 15 issue of "The Flat Hat," college newspaper, which lists her activities, including membership in Gamma Phi Beta of which she served as head sponsor.

She has been vice president of Alpha Lambda Delta; treasurer of Mortar Board; secretary of Phi Alpha Theta, honorary history fraternity; and president of Orchestral, college modern dance club.

It is her activity as a dancer which is spotlighted in the article. She is quoted as being primarily interested in "exploring archaic and primitive forms in modern dance" and hopes to continue her studies at the Louis Horst Studios in New York after graduation.

In the Orchestral recital to be held March 27 and 28, Miss Sterner's solo selection "The Hardships of Winter," depicting winter toils as contrasted with the joys of Spring.

The article lists as her particular scholarly interest—history, particularly dealing with the political and diplomatic development of Russia and the Balkans. To aid her studies she is also learning the Russian language and hopes someday to do graduate work in this area.

"More immediate plans for the future," the article concludes, "include marriage on June 29, to Don Keat, a graduate in Psychology at Columbia University.

Members were reminded to have children's clothing ready for the Ingathering to be held in Allentown on March 28.

Mrs. Gladys Stoudt and Mrs. Linda Williams were named to the nominating committee. Mrs. Ruth Sipproth presided at the business meeting.

Taking part in the devotions were Mrs. Ann Dennis, Mrs. Gladys Stoudt, Mrs. Barbara Fife and Mrs. Gertrude Nunn. Also present for the meeting were Mrs. Ruth Heller, Mrs. Zanta Zeller, Mrs. Margaret Getz, Mrs. Agnes Gunn, Mrs. Olive Dennis, Mrs. Arlene Wolff, Mrs. Carol Dally and Mrs. Albert Klingel.

A turkey supper was served to the group prior to the meeting by the hostesses Mrs. Ruth Sipproth, Mrs. Ruth Heller and Mrs. Sara Ann Blakeslee.

The April meeting will be held on the 18th at the church with Mrs. Gladys Stoudt and Mrs. Olive Dennis as hostesses.

City. That was one of the reasons why Miss May was chosen for escort duty, since New York is close to her home in Stroudsburg and the trip would provide an opportunity for her to visit her father.

Nancy, a graduate of East Stroudsburg State College, taught for two years in Hawaii and then accepted a position teaching in the school for foreign personnel in Seoul, Korea under the direction of the United Presbyterian Church.

She has completed all but six months of her three-year term, and the chance for an unexpected trip home was an exciting one. They left Seoul at 11 a.m. on Thursday and arrived in New York at 8 p.m. the same day, thanks to crossing the International Dateline. There she was met by her sister Harriett and her young nephew.

She was also met by the foster parents who are adopting her three babies who will need so much love, care and understanding. It was a touching experience, Nancy reports.

That love and care can work miracles, she is convinced. One of the adopting parents was accompanied by friends who had adopted a similar baby only three months ago. The difference those three months had made was tremendous: the baby was "fat and sassy." Such babies often gain a pound a month and develop at an unbelievable rate.

Freed from her charges, Nancy is enjoying her brief visit home. While her father was teaching at East Stroudsburg State College, she spent one whole day just looking around the stores.

"Unless you've been where there is nothing, you can't appreciate such abundance," she said, "and you can look at things forever."

However, she also reports that she has had a very happy and rewarding time in Korea. The social life is an active one with the 1,000 Americans in the city of Seoul serving as sort of a small town, keeping tabs on each other. The presence of a large number of young American officers also enlivens the social scene for young American women.

Although she need not know Korean for her teaching duties which are in English, she has learned enough of the language so that she can find her way around, to shop and to carry on the ordinary commerce of daily life.

But her Korean is still not proficient enough to converse in the realm of ideas, and the Koreans are very philosophical, she adds wryly. Most of the educated Koreans do speak English, however.

The politics, the coups, the problems of Korean government are known here before the Koreans know them, she said. News in Korea is strictly censored and the only way that ordinary citizen knows that something is afoot is the increased number of soldiers on the street.

Actually, Miss May learns of what is going on in Korea only through the stories carried in the American news magazines to which she subscribes, and which arrive a considerable time after the event.

The slowness of the mail service was the reason that the mission in Korea asked her to bring a package of information about its work with her on the flight. The material had been requested by a Presbyterian Church which is concentrating its study and gifts on Korea. It's destination: Oak, Ill., in care of Rev. John Bellingham, former pastor of the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church where Nancy was raised.

Nancy had a chance to see many of her friends at the local church when she was the speaker at their postponed world day of prayer service which had as its theme—Korea.

She will leave for her homeward journey next Tuesday or Wednesday. Without a single baby to keep her busy, the trip will seem a lot shorter, she guesses, despite the fact that the International Dateline will make it a day longer.

Miss Everitt Honored By Polk PTA

Kresgeville — Miss Marjane Everitt was the guest of honor at a "This is Your Life" program presented this week by the Polk Parent Teachers Assn.

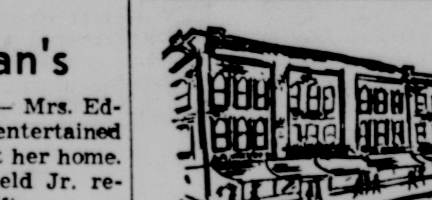

The highlights of her life ranged a wide field, including her summer in Europe, a special course in England, and travels to Nova Scotia, Arizona, Nebraska and other points in the globe. She plans to take a library course at Kutztown State College this summer.

The parents banner was retained by Miss Amelia Martin's fourth grade for the third time in succession.

Plans were completed for the card party to be held at the school on Saturday night, March 23. Mrs. Wilma Hinton and Mrs. Grace Snyder were appointed to the refreshment committee.

The library committee announced that a dance and cake walk could be held at the high school on April 19.

On display were the new curtains, purchased at a cost of $600, and pictures purchased by the PTA for the cafeteria. Mrs. Virginia Stiff presided at the meeting.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

That John Grogan!

Most department heads of my acquaintance would tear their hair if a customer were to come in and say, "Now looka here—your ad says this is the best, the most beautiful, the most reasonably priced item of its kind, and it isn't. Your advertising stinks, and I want my money back."

But not John Grogan. He comes into my office and aggravates his ulcer (not to say what he'd be doing to mine if I had one) by lamenting, "I did think maybe just ONE person would be a little bit uncomfortable and come back within 10 days... but no one has. The only ones who come back are the women who bring in their friends, or who want to buy a couple more pairs for themselves. Do you know, Mrs. Maloney, that as of now we have 150 perfectly satisfied customers WALKING ON PILLOWS on the streets of Stroudsburg?"

John was referring, of course, to the Desco Revelations which he introduced some weeks ago with the magnanimous offer, "Wear them for 10 days in comfort. If you do not find these the most comfortable shoes you have ever worn, Wyckoff's will refund your money."

A friend of mine bought a pair a few days after the ad broke, and I made it a point to check with her. "How do you like your Revelations?" I asked.

"They're wonderful," she answered without a moment's hesitation. "I love them—I just wish they came in every color of the rainbow."

I questioned a few more customers and the reaction was the same. So how in heaven's name can that Grogan lad expect to have a disgruntled purchaser demand a refund! When you sell a woman a pair of shoes, soft as a glove, and know that her foot, however calloused and abused, is going to be cradled on a pillow of foam, and that she will be stepping out in springy but solid comfort on a wedge heel, HOW can you expect to hear any complaints? As far as John Grogan is concerned, on a deal like this, he's playing with loaded dice and marked cards... EVERYTHING'S in his favor, so how can he help but make everybody happy?

As a matter of fact, these shoes are so terrific, the Women in White have demanded we stock Revelations for them. So, we just received twelve pairs, whiter than driven snow, to sell along with our tans and blacks. What do you bet the women who buy them will be thrilled with them? And what do you also bet that Grogan guy will still be complaining? My name may be Maloney, but sometimes I have to get my Irish up to understand that fellow. Even then, he's got me baffled!

Spring Gardening Tips

By George Abraham
PORTABLE GREENHOUSE: The electric miniature greenhouses which have appeared on the market are a real boon to busy gardeners if the gadgets are used properly.

I've received complaints from amateur gardeners who tell us their seeds do well inside the plastic greenhouses but the seedlings die off. I think the trouble here lies in failing to ventilate, or improper watering.

If you're in doubt as to proper watering time, allow the seedlings to wilt slightly, then water. This is safer than overwatering. In other words, the surface of the soil can be dry to the touch before watering the seedlings.

After the seedlings are about an inch or so tall, they may be transplanted into clay or peat pots, and then set into coldframes where they harden or "toughen" up.

Hardening young plants in a coldframe slows down growth and conditions the plants for the outdoor planting.

WATER SOFTENERS: Are water softeners harmful to plant growth? Recently we conducted a survey here, asking our readers to write and tell us if their water softener actually harmed their plants and other house plants.

To our surprise 79 per cent of the replies reported that softeners were safe on all house plants. We were under the impression that water softeners had a harmful effect on house plants, but most readers of this department disagree.

I'm keeping your replies on file and hope to prepare a report on the use of water softeners soon. Please continue to write and tell me your experience with softeners.

PRUNING APPLE TREES: An apple tree that's full of extra wood, water sprouts and branches will produce smaller, poorly colored apples.

For the home gardener there's no great secret to know about pruning. Bearing trees should have dead and broken limbs cut off flush, without leaving stubs.

Diseased limbs, low hanging types that catch your head or lawn mower should be removed, and you should also cut out the water sprouts ("suckers") which come from the trunk and main limbs. Thin out the top to admit light to lower limbs, and remove any growth that rubs or crisscrosses one another.

When you finish the pruning job the tree shouldn't look like a bunch of TV antennas jammed together. Rather it should have that opened look. If it does, you'll have better fruit next fall.

If you're going to plant a small nursery-grown tree this spring, be sure to prune it back about one-third and remove weak crotches so that you have about two well-spaced "leaders" (main upright branches). Narrow-angled crotches are more apt to split apart than wide-angled ones.

HOME LANDSCAPING: When it comes to selecting evergreens many home gardeners are completely baffled. Since these represent considerable amount of money, you should think twice before selecting your evergreens. Like people, they come in different shapes.

For example, there's a low growing form ideal for slopes and banks or for ground cover. For example, andorra juniper. Also remember the spreading types for foundation planting and under windows. These grow out instead of up. If you want upright types between windows and at the ends of the house, use the upright yews.

Your nurseryman will point out these various types, so be sure to approach him with a sketch of your home or area to be landscaped. Thousands of dollars are spent on shrubs planted in the wrong place.

Be sure to tell him if the area is sunny or shady. You cannot grow sun-loving shrubs in the shade. It's money wasted.

ROBINIA AGAIN: Don't go overboard on the new Robinia ads. The firm which sells them does not identify the tree as black locust, thorn locust or Yellow locust, generally considered weed trees by arborists.

This item is susceptible to borers, leaf miners, has thorns and a bad habit of suckering. When you select a shade tree you want it to last a lifetime, so take care when you're ready for the job of planting one.

ROSEMAJORS: This hardy Hibiscus is handsome and makes a fine flowering plant in that dry spot between the house and a sidewalk. The top dies back in winter and should be cut back in spring so new growth can start from the base.

If you saved seed from your plant, or your neighbors, sow now in a sand-peat mixture and they'll be ready to set outdoors within a couple of months. It'll take about three years before plants will bloom, but the wait is worth it.

SALVIA: "scarlet Sage" or red salvia is one of the showiest annuals we have. Seed will not germinate if night temperature is below 50 degrees, so give plenty of heat if you want to start your own plants.

Don't forget there are early midseason and late varieties. If you live in an area where frosts come early, avoid the tall salvia as it won't bloom in time. Try the Red Pillar an early dwarf, blooming around July 15.

Bonfire (Clara Bedman) is a later type, coming about 1st of August. It makes an ideal background plant. St. John's Fire will bloom in early August, and growing about a foot tall.

If you'd like an attractive planting, try Royal Purple for a background, with a dwarf red (such as Red Pillar or St. John's Fire) in the foreground. Then in front of the reds, have a row of White Sweet Alyssum.

CINERARIA: Are these house plants worth keeping over?

Once they've finished blooming, discard them, as they seldom make a satisfactory plant the second year.

Cineraria take seeds of water (they are beneficial to humans by increasing the humidity in rooms) and also they tend to become covered with aphids. Spray with nicotine sulfate to check these pests.

Guaranteed Signatures

By William A. Doyle

Q. Recently I redeemed some mutual fund shares I owned for cash. The fund insisted that I sign the certificate for the shares I redeemed and that my signature be "guaranteed." Why? Also, isn't it somewhat dangerous to send a certificate endorsed with my signature through the mail?

A. Any certificate registered in your name must be endorsed in exactly the same way that your name appears on the front of the certificate before you can sell (in the case of most stocks) or redeem (in the case of mutual fund shares) the shares represented by that certificate.

You can do that by signing in the place indicated on the back of the certificate. Or you can leave that blank and sign a "stock power" — a separate form authorizing the sale or redemption. There is always some remote possibility that the certificate might be lost or stolen in the mail. That is why you should always send your certificates by registered mail. If you have signed a separate stock power, you can give yourself added protection by sending the unsigned certificate in one letter and the signed stock power in a separate letter.

Most people who redeem mutual fund shares have all the details handled for them by the broker, dealer or sales organization through which they purchased the shares in the first place. Frankly, that's the easy way to redeem mutual fund shares — with a minimum of red tape.

However, you can do it yourself. In that case you must present the certificate for the shares you wish to redeem for cash to either the mutual fund or its transfer agent.

No matter what method you use, your signature must be guaranteed — either by a brokerage firm (or some similar organization) or a commercial bank.

The guarantee involved here is that you are actually the person in whose name the mutual fund shares are registered. The outfit that guarantees your signature guarantees that you are that person. This provides protection for the mutual fund and for you and all other owners of the fund's shares.

Q. I own some stock in a Canadian company. In January I received a dividend check and with it a statement that a 15 percent Canadian income tax had been withheld. I deposited the check at my bank and was promptly charged an additional 7 1/2 percent for "Canadian exchange." Is this correct or am I being taken?

A. It's correct. The Canadian Government levies a 15 percent withholding tax on dividends paid by Canadian corporations to non-residents of Canada. However, you can claim the amount of that tax as a credit when you file your U.S. Federal income tax return.

And the Canadian dollar is now at a "discount" of just about 7 1/2 percent in relation to the American dollar, in "foreign exchange" transactions. In other words, one Canadian dollar is worth about 92 1/2 cents in U.S. money.

So, if you deposit a check for $100, in Canadian currency, in a U.S. bank, your account will be credited for about $92.5 in U.S. currency.

Many banks would charge you an additional fee for handling foreign currency. If your bank only passed on to you the current discount of about 7 1/2 percent, you got off easy.

Question Box

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: D. E. of Tobyhanna: "I purchased six tropical fish and so far have lost nearly all of them. I use regular tap water and wonder if the temperature or the chlorine in it has any harmful effect?"

The chlorine will not harm the fish since it usually evaporates from the water. However, temperature is important. Temperature for tropical fish should be around 72 degrees most of the time. For six fish you should have a five-gallon aquarium, with fine gravel placed in the bottom. You should also have plenty of plant life such as coarsescrew vallneria plants, plus an oxygenating plant such as Anacharis (this liberates oxygen for the fish).

You might also add a couple of snails (these are scavengers which keep the aquarium clean). The tank shouldn't be in direct light, but a few feet away from the window.

In a five-gallon aquarium water should be changed about twice a year, if kept well balanced with growing plants and snails. To keep up the water level merely add water once or twice a week, leaving the fish and plants in.

If your fish are "guppies" you could grow them in a small bowl, say two or three quarts for six, with a bunch of oxygen-producing plants. You wouldn't need gravel for such a setup. Guppies are ideal for the amateur interested in tropical fish, since they do not need heated water, or a light or extra care.

V. G. of Jonas: "We still have a live Christmas tree. Please tell me how it should be handled."

Dig a hole at least three or four inches larger than the container your tree is in. Remove from container and set entire ball of roots into the hole. Pack some peat moss around roots, water well, then add some soil. Water again. Spring rains should keep soil nice and moist. During summer mulch the base with sawdust, peat or cocobean shells to conserve moisture.

W. S. of Saylorburg: "I want to raise a sweet potato vine to climb our window. How do we get one started?"

Just select a good medium sized sweet potato, jab a toothpick in each side and allow it to rest on the rim of a glass container. The lower end of the potato is constantly covered with water. Plant will send out many roots, often filling the glass container. The vine will grow in sun or shade.

Some gardeners have better luck by putting the sweet potato in the dark for two weeks, for root development. If a lot of leafy shoots develop, pinch out a few, leaving two or three for climbing. Be sure to run vines on strings for support.

Best temperature for growing the sweet potato is around 60 to 70 degrees.

Local Young GOP Plan Conference

A DISCUSSION on the regional conference to be held at Split Rock Lodge highlighted a meeting of the Monroe County Young Republican Club at the Penn-Stroud Hotel Tuesday night.

A final meeting to complete plans for the conference will be held April 2 at the Penn-Stroud. The four-state conference will be held April 5, 6 and 7 at Split Rock.

Also discussed were plans for the party to be held at Tannersville Inn on Friday.

Sen. Krisher, who presided at Sen. Krisher's trial, passed sentence.

Last week, Judge Krisher denied the 30-year-old former Warren County man's appeal for a new trial.

Sen. Krisher indicated Wednesday he might appeal to a higher court. He told the judge nothing he could say would influence the local court but that a higher court wouldn't be affected by the public outcry in the case.

The 13-year-old girl was beaten fatally on Aristes Mountain as she fought off Sen. Krisher's advances.

2nd Degree Conferred On 21 Knights

THE DEGREE team of Father John T. Butler Council 4084, Knights of Columbus, conferred the second degree of the order on a class of 21 candidates recently at the council headquarters.

The degree was conferred on Anthony A. Alberts, James J. Flanagan, Frank J. Gochal, John L. Jones, Charles W. Kneibacker, Martin E. Miller, Frederick A. Mutchler, Stanley J. Zuba, John J. Zugel, Robert G. Lundergan, Carl Adelman, Joseph Sgro, Paul Garba, Jack McDermott, John Walsh, Martin Murray, Alfred Nerino, Robert Baunella, Albert Febbo, Alfred Dally and Samuel Becher.

The class honored James J. Coleman, past grand knight. Visitors included Joe Lewis, grand knight of the Pocono Mountains Council, and Vito Curcio, grand knight of Father Deniseo Council, Bangor.

James Murphy, district deputy, reported the third degree will be conferred on candidates April 21. Also discussed was the state Knights of Columbus convention, to be held at Tamiment with Father Butler Council as the host. Celeste Rossi and Sam Driebe were elected alternate delegates to the convention.

John Sullivan and George M. Rung were named co-chairmen for the joint K. of C. and Holy Name Society communion breakfast to be held Sunday, March 31, following 9 a.m. mass in St. Matthew's Church. The breakfast, a father and son affair, will be served in the school auditorium.

The degree team for Monday's initiation included James T. Ogden, grand knight; Joseph Harrison, deputy grand knight; Fred J. Svenson Jr., chancellor; Charles J. Dellaria, recorder; Thomas Leonard, financial secretary; Andrew Gondell, treasurer; Royal Brown, lecturer; Ed Yost, warden; George M. Rung, inside guard; John Schnaltman and Robert Carden, outside guards; John L. Sullivan, six-point chairman; James Murphy, district deputy; Richard Wolbert, fraternal chairman; and Charles I. Nichols, Walter Bishop, Leonard Cramer, Sal Miraglia, Jack Owens and Arthur J. Byrner, guards.

Rev. John A. Esseff is council chaplain.

WIBC Championships

Women Head For Bowling Nationals

MEMPHIS (AP) — Mother nature is pretty things up outside but women by the dozens are ignoring it all and heading indoors for the biggest event in the world for lady bowlers.

It's the annual Women's International Bowling Congress (WIBC) tournament (starting April 4). Some 25,000 women will be trying for $172,376 and with that many girls it figures to be a noisy spring festival.

This is the first time the event has ever been held in the South. Entered are 3,358 teams. Officials estimate that about 1,430 entrants will be swinging each day in a tourney that runs for eight weeks.

The extra large field is caused by the highly democratic nature of the tourney. Any woman who bowled at least 12 games in a WIBC-Approved League by last Dec. 1 is eligible.

The easy requirements and the low entry fee of $6 is aimed at luring the modest amateurs, considered the backbone of the current bowling boom.

"Our biggest job is selling those new bowlers who sort of flinch away when they hear the word 'National,'" says Freda Botkin, WIBC tourney promoter.

Works Well
But the pitch has worked well over the 46 years of the event.

Ray Sadecki Set To Fight '62 Miseries

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Ray Sadecki is back from the Army, anxious to wipe out the bad taste of his 1962 season with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Sadecki got into the bad graces of Manager Johnny Keane last summer when he was bombed by Cincinnati and accused of a lackadaisical effort. He was fined $250 and suspended. Later Sadecki was shipped out to the Atlanta farm club where he had a 7-1 record in the regular season and was 5-1 in the playoffs, including the Little World Series, won by Atlanta.

"Another Year"
"This is another year," said the 22-year-old left-handed pitcher Tuesday. "I just want a chance to pitch. I got down here late because of the Army but I had been working out since Jan. 28 at the University of Minnesota, thanks to Dick Siebert, their coach."

"I feel I have to prove myself and get ready to show them I can win up here. I have a lot to do to make up for a lousy year. In my rookie year I won more games (9-9 in 1960) than I did last season with the Cards (6-8)."

Act Was Missed

Hinton Stars For Senators

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—One of baseball's finest acting performances went for naught because one of the audience apparently missed the act.

It cost the Baltimore Orioles the services of Chuck Hinton and gave the Washington Senators the best break of their two seasons on the American League scene.

"I was playing in the 1960 instructional league at Scottsdale, Ariz., when Paul Richards, then managing the Orioles, came up to me," recalls a smiling Hinton.

"Protect Others"

"I've got to protect other players and must put you on the expansion draft list," Richards said. "We're going to try to sneak you back into the organization. Now when you make a catch in the outfield try to make believe you got hurt."

"Earl Weaver, the manager at Scottsdale, was hitting fungoes to the outfield. He hit two or three over my head but they were not near the fence. Then he hit one right at the wall. I knew they had mats there and didn't worry about getting hurt. So I banged into the fence and held my shoulder. I started kidding. I was putting on a good act. I thought. They put towels under my arm and over my shoulder."

Want Doctor

"The 'injury' went off real well. 'Don't touch him, don't touch him' the players yelled."

They wanted a doctor. They finally helped me off the field. It went off real well. But a few days later the Senators drafted me for $75,000 from the Baltimore expansion list."

News of the fake 'injury' apparently never reached Washington and the team that was put together in a hurry after the old Senators moved to Minneapolis just didn't have time to scout all the draft list prospects.

But the Senators knew about Hinton's .389 batting average and 29 home runs with Stockton, Calif., in a Class C league. In the spring of '61 the Senators optioned him out. After hitting .316 in 26 games for Indianapolis, they brought him up to the majors on May 13, 1961.

Not Well-Known

"I remember that date," says Hinton. "I had played only Class C ball and I guess nobody knew much about me."

They know now. The Senators regard the 26-year-old Negro right fielder from Rocky Mount, N. C., as one of their future stars. Hinton hit .260 for Washington in 1961 but last year he moved his average up to .50 points. He hit .310 with 17 homers in 151 games. It was the fourth best figure in the American League.

Learns To Relax

"I believe I got more experience and more confidence," says Hinton. "This spring I must learn to relax more. Lucky for me nobody ever tampered with my hitting. In 1966 I started out as a catcher with Phoenix, then put two years in service and did some catching for Aberdeen. I played some infield, too, but now I'm an outfielder."

The new Senators weren't the only ones who missed the background on Hinton's fake injury. The old Senators, now the Minnesota Twins, missed him completely.

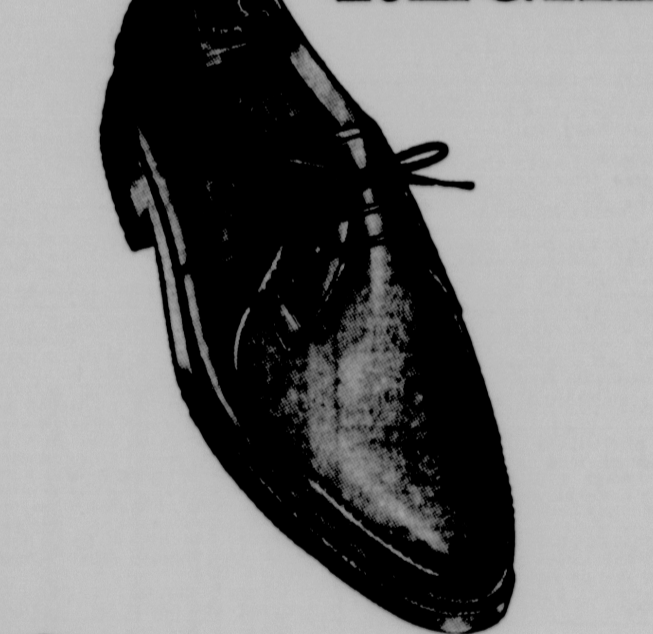

In 1966 Hinton hitch-hiked from Rocky Mount, N. C., to old Griffith Stadium in Washington for a public tryout. The old Senators didn't sign him but the Baltimore Orioles did.

Pimlico Sets Four Stakes Events

PIMLICO, Md. — A program of four stakes events, worth $200,000 and representing an 11 per cent increase over last spring, has been scheduled for Pimlico's May 4-May 18 meeting, according to Louis Pondfield, vice president and executive director of the Maryland Jockey Club.

Highlight of the 148th meeting at Pimlico will be the $150,000-added Preakness Stakes, set for renewal on Saturday, May 18. The Preakness, middle jewel of the Triple Crown, attracted 140 nominations at the time of closing on Feb. 15, but late-developing colts may be made eligible by payment of the $10,000 supplemental fee on or before Thursday, May 16.

Also featured on the spring stakes program will be the $15,000 Riggs Handicap, the $20,000 Black-Eyed Susan Stakes and the $15,000 Walden Stakes.

The Riggs, for three-year-olds and up, will be decided on the lush infield turf course at a mile and a sixteenth. The lucrative stakes program gets under way on opening day, May 4, with the Riggs renewal.

The following Saturday, May 11, will find a field of the nation's top three-year-old fillies vying for the Black-Eyed Susan Stakes, distaff counterpart of the Preakness. The $20,000 Black-Eyed Susan is run at a mile and a sixteenth.
